SEQUEL TO ACCIDENT.

Children of Late Theodore Grow Sue Studebaker Bros. for $15,000.

Marcus J. Grow et al, by Sarah J. Grow, their guardian ad litem, and Sarah J. Grow in person, today filed a $15,000 damage suit against the Studebaker Bros. company of Utah, for the death of Theodore M. Grow, the father and husband of plaintiffs.

The complaint alleges that on Dec.
20, 1901, Theodore M. Grow was employed by the Salt Lake Building and Manufacturing company to perform some hiding on State street. The roof of ild building is of sheet iron and ex-nds beyond the wall or end of the illeling for a distance of 18 inches.

building for a distance of 18 Inches. Said extension is nothing but sheet iron and has no support whatever.

In performing his labors it became necessary for Mr. Grow to step upon such extension, which immediately gave way, letting him fall to the ground, causing him injuries from which he died on March 22, 1902. Negligence of defendant is charged bescause it keyw of the unsafe condition of the roof and did not give the Sait Lake Building and Manufacturing company or Mr. Grow any warning about it whatever.

The Oregon Short Line will shortly add another attraction to its Portand special in the shape of a handsome observation car of a pattern of those now attached to the Overland Limited. In other words, one of the finest cars that

This car will undoubtedly prove great attraction for the traveling pubic, especially when the Columbia river, with its famous scenery, is reached.

Before the innovation is installed, however, it is the purpose of the company to sprinkle the roadbed with oil in order to lay the Idaho dust. As previously noted experiments in that direction have been under way for the past 10 days. One of the worst stretches of track between Pocatello and Huntington has been sprinkled and the test has surpassed expectations. Ter miles of track in the vicinity of Moun-tain Home has been treated. Prior to reaching this section yesterday the rear end of the train was practically nid-den by the swirl of dust and pebbles. Then the section was reached and within a second the change was marked. Passengers crowded out on to the rear platform and enjoyed the breeze without encountering a speck of dust until the end of the sprinkled strip was passed. Then there was a hasty retreat for cover.

Short Line officials are exceedingly pleased with the result of the experi-

LEWIS IS POPULAR. He Raises the Wages of the Dining Car Employes.

If Supt. Lewis of the Oregon Short Line dining car service were to run for office tomorrow he would pull a solid vote of the railroad men. Mr. Lewis has become exceedingly popular in a very short space of time following his coming to the west from the New York Central. No sooner had Mr. Lewis taken up his abode at Pocatello than he announced that on the first of the month all dining car conductors would be raised tild a month and waiters to month all dining car conductors would be raised $10 a month and waiters $5. This step means that the dining car service on the Short Line gets better pay than those of the Southern Pacific, O. R. & N., Inion Pacific and Denver & Rio Grande. Henceforth the conductors will receive $90 a month and the waiters $39. waiters $30. As the waiters average from between $8 and $12 a week in tips (so one of them affirmed yesterday on the Pocatello run), it can readily be, seen that the boys have a good thing. Mr. Lewis in making the raise in wages announced that he proposed to have the best men possible and to pay them accordingly

Lost No Time.

The Oregon Short Line construction department has lost no time in getting down to work on the construction of a standard gauge track from the old Garfield beach depot on First South to con-nect with the Saltair line. Indications are that trains will be running over that track by July 4. Immediately after the court granted permission to oc-cupy the Russel corner a gang of men started operations in cutting down trees and driving survey stakes for the spur.

THE CANAL ROUTE BATTLE

Waterway.

MRS, M'LAUGHLIN HIS VICTIM | NICARAGUA MOST SUPPORT.

Those Opposed to Any Canal May Give Their Notes to Panama-Senators Leaving Washington.

Special Correspondence.

Washington, June 16.-Which route for the canal? That is the question that the United States senate is now called upon to answer. That is a question which is of vast interest to the people of the country. More important still is the question whether there shall be any canal authorized at this session of Congress, for at the present time there is some doubt whether any route will be chosen. A great deal of careful consideration has been given to the canal subject since the Hepburn bil the Nicaragua route passed the senate on the canal question—one favoring the Nicaragua route, one the Pa a route and one against any canal largest party is for Nicaragua, the next against any canal if it could bring about that result without a direct vote but the Panama route will show con siderable strength and perhaps a ma jority of the senate, because those who oppose any canal will vote for Panama in preference to Nicaragua.

IT IS A STRUGGLE

Heretofore canal bills have passed the senate without very much diffi-culty-bills of various kinds, but es-pecially bills loaning the credit of the wernment to the Maritime Canal mpany. None received consideration in the house. Now the house has taken the initiative, and it is "up to" the senate to enter upon this great under-taking or find some method of delaying it. That many senators shrink from such a great undertaking there can be doubt, but that a majority favor me canal seems certain. Into the struggle have entered some of the strong men of the senate-men who do not stop until the last chance of suc-cess for what they advocate has dis-appeared. Senator Morgan has a strong following which is determined to pass the Nicaraguan bill. Senator Hanna is the leader of the opposition, and he has been most active in rallying men to his suport. It is a battle of considerable magnitude, and, unlike other measures which have been before the senate, its disposition upon a final vote is not a foregone conclusion.

SENATORS SLIPPING AWAY. These are the days when senators get away from the worries and cares of public life whenever they can. Some senators decide to leave the capital and do so either on account of their health or because they feel that they have given sufficient time to public affairs for one session. Senator Hoar has gone for the remainder of the ses sion, and so has Senator Depew. Th upon assurances he had received from the senate "steering committee" that Congress would adjourn by June 10, he had made arrangements to be absent from that time.

SOME OLD MEN MADE GLAD.

Speaker Henderson has caused great rejoicing among a lot of very old by giving general approval to a bill pensioning the veterans of Indian wars. There are men from 65 to 90 years old who participated in different Indian wars from Florida to the Pacific coast who will be benefited by this bill. It has been pending for a great many years and defeated whenever it came up. It generally passes the senate, but the house has held it up. The bill has always been pressed by the men from the Pacific coast, as there are more people in Oregon and Washington who will be benefited than in any other part of the union. INTEREST FADES WITH DIS-

'As we get away from any great even our interest naturally abates. So it is that those matters which seemed of such great importance and so much the public eye when this Congress convened last December scarcely receive attention new. I refer particularly to the suggestion that anarchy be s pressed, that adequate measures passed for the protection of the dent. When Congress convened, country was ringing with demands, for legislation which would make it impos sible for another presidential as-sassination. Now, when the bill is finally considered in the house, it arouses but little interest. The lawyers discuss it from a constitutional point of view and make it a matter of grave concern as to legal phraseology, and they are seemingly the only people interested. ONE ON ELKINS. There was a recess in the senate, but Senator Elkins did not know a large entered the chamber and found a large entered the chamber and found a large number of petitions on his desk. one was talking; the senate seemed very quiet.
